MAZATZAL WILDERNESS

There is a network of some 240 miles of “system” trails serving the Mazatzal Wilderness Area and contiguous areas. Their condition varies from satisfactory to very poor. All trails are closed to motor vehicles and mechanical transport such as bikes.

Use a great deal of caution when traveling on backcountry trails such as this one and be aware of the risks you assume.

A few brief comments are in order about the following trail:

Barnhardt Trail 43: 5.9 miles long. Scenic but with long uphill grades. One of the heaviest-used trails in this Wilderness. Not recommended for horses. Elevation: 4,200 - 6,000 feet. Termini: Barnhardt TH (Forest Road 419), and Trail 23.
